

INVINITI

CERTIFIED SUSTAINABLE

Inviniti is 100% certified sustainable and produced by a certified carbon zero business

It's good to know when you purchase something, it has come from a good place. A place that honours the land and takes care of it for future generations. A place full of people who care about the resources they use and who work hard to replenish every single element.

We think carefully about our packaging choices too. Our lightweight bottles are made in New Zealand with a minimum 60% recycled content. The paper for our wine labels comes from certified, sustainably managed forests and our pallet shrink-wrap is 100% biodegradable.

The infinity symbol featured on the label represents our continuous respect and care for the environment and our ongoing commitment to sustainability.

Lawson's Dry Hills is currently the only New Zealand winery to have accreditations for both ISO14001 (Environmental Management) and ISO14064 (Carbon Zero)

An aromatic Sauvignon Blanc with passionfruit, citrus and freshly chopped herbs. The palate is crisp and dry with concentrated fruit characters making it the ideal, refreshing glass of wine.

A fruit-forward style of Pinot Noir with youthful vibrancy and flavoursome, red berry characters. Fine to enjoy on its own or great with mixed platters, meats, roasted veges, pizzas, chicken, bbqs and more.
